EARLY ANCESTORS

For data on our ancestors earlier than James Ingles Jr. (born 1749) and his wife Catherine Boone (cousin of Daniel Boone) born 1751, I would refer relatives to Nita Scudder Baugh 4220 Spruce St. Philadelphia, Pa., who has done extensive research on all lines prior to James and Catherine Boone Ingles, as has her mother Rebecca Scudder of 114 W. Eighth St., Tempe, Arizona. It is my personal hypothesis that James Ingles (husband of Ruth Harmer) was probably the brother, or near relative, of the Thomas Ingles of Chambersburg, Pa. and of Virginia who is mentioned in Transallegany Pioneers by Hale. Mrs Baugh and her mother are at present doing research on these early lines, and have searched extensively in the Pennsylvania land records and have uncovered a great deal of fine genealogical evidence, particularly on James Ingles and Ruth Harmer and her ancestors who go back to William the Conqueror. TRIBUTE TO MY FATHER, THOMAS JEFFERSON INGLES
(Grandson of Bartlett Haley Ingles I and Son of Bartlett Haley Ingles II)

By

Virginia Ingles Maes

Why is it that we must lose a thing to really appreciate its worth? I've just lost my father, and so many wonderful things about him that I was only hazily aware of are now so very clear. My childhood seems to unfold before me like a lovely dream. I think of my Father's infinite kindness and love, and remember how like a father he was to many more than I. How, in the little country town in which he lived, people old and young came to him with their troubles, and somehow he seemed always to be able to help them, if only by the comfort of his boundless understanding. How he cared so little for the material things of life, always looking deeper into the world about him in search of real values. How, often, he found real worth in some penniless derelict passing through the town and, by his compassion and helping hand, helped many who seemed to have become bewildered to set their feet firmly on the ground and with renewed courage go again in search of their place in the world. Because of this faith in the intrinsic worth of most men, more than one hungry and bedraggled wayfarer sat at our table for food, when many ~~would~~ have been afraid to open the door to them.

My mind goes back to my happy childhood. In my mind's eye I can see so clearly those wonderful hours of companionship, of deep understanding and appreciation; hours it is so hard to ever reproduce in the same spontaneous beauty again. You think of the long walks home from church, when, at ten, you went crunching along in the snow, your heart filled with pride that you could keep up with your Father's long vital steps. Looking back, you wonder if you will ever again feel such beauty as you found around you trudging along through the snow covered little town, your heart filled with the beauty and reverence of the little country church.

Your mind goes back to the nights of electrical storms and imagined fears when only your Father's presence could dispel your fright. How he would then lie down beside you and weave wonderful tales of wishes come true; of wild fantastic escapes from pursuing Indians in which you always had the fastest horse, and in the breath-taking climax would save him from capture. You think of how in all his life he never struck you because somehow he seemed to be able to reach you inside with the knowledge of right and wrong and make you more painfully aware of your mistakes than had he thrashed you. You remember the times at entertainments, after you had sung some childish song, it was always he, looking as if he would burst with pride who would clap longest when you were through. It seems that one of the hardest things to bear is that the children you will have could not know him, but perhaps by trying more and more to pattern your life after his, they may know his fine influence.

His tremendous vitality and the ever ready hand he had to help his fellow man over the rough spots, were perhaps his most dominant characteristics. Somehow it doesn't seem that he is really gone; I feel so sure that a person so truly good and kind as he must ever live on in the memories of those who loved and cherished him; live on in the influence of his life on those whose paths crossed his. It seems that even now, when my grief is yet new, I can somehow bring a smile to my lips because in his ever present desire to help the world along with a laugh, I know that is what he would have wanted.

Why is it when you are grown and better able to appreciate your parents, you somehow lose your youthful frankness and neglect to tell them half the pride and love that's in your heart? When it's too late and you lose one, you can only take consolation in the hope that perhaps they may then know, even better than you could have told them, what you really feel.

It is consoling to know that despite the shyness at displaying emotions that is felt when childish frankness is gone, one of the last things I did was to send home a poem, "Concentric" by Josephine Wetzler, the sentiment of which had made me think of my parents. My father was so pleased with it that he committed it to memory. It brings such peace and comfort to know that he took this thought with him on his journey into another realm:

Once my youthful world was bounded
By a circle at your feet,
Then the lines were stretched and widened
To the schoolyard and the street,
But the center of my circle
Was your tender watchful care
And when storms or darkness gathered
My footsteps led me there.

Far horizons called and claimed me
But they kept us not apart
For an ever open highroad
Was the pathway to your heart,
And although the circle widens
To some distant shining star,
I know your love will find me
And your hand will not be far.

Data From The Kentucky State
Historical Society

In the History of Bourbon, Scott, Harrison and Nicholas Counties, Perrin, 1882, there are several sketches of Ingles, the grandfather of whom came to Ky. in 1752. This grandparent was James Ingles and he emigrated from Pennsylvania; settled near Bryan's Station. He died on the place he settled in 1803. He had five sons and four daughters: Joseph, the eldest married Mrs Bryan, a niece of Daniel Boon; James settled on the old homestead; Thomas and John settled in Indiana; Edith married Nelson Hunt, and located in Missouri; Nellie married a Mr. Victor and settled in Nicholas county, Boone, who was born at Grant's Station in 1784, and married Elizabeth Reid; died 1837. Had eight sons, 1 daughter. James married Polly Field.

Power, J.C. History of the early settlers of Sangamon County. Springfield, Ill., Edwin A. Wilson and Co. 1876 pp. 401-2

"Ingels, James V., was born in Fayette county, Ky., April 1815. His father Thomas Ingels, born in Penn., April 20, 1789 was taken by his parents to Bourbon county Ky., and was married in Fayette county to Judith Haley. They had six children, and moved to Jacksonville, Ill., thence to that part of Schuyler which is now Brown county, where they had three children, and Mrs. Judith Ingels died. Thomas Ingels married again, his wife died, and he removed, with part of his children, to Gentry county, Mo. and died there. Two of his sons came to Sangamon county, James V. and John.

"Joseph Allison, farmer; P.O. Virginia, Ill. was born in Tuscarawas Co. Ohio, Oct. 17, 1823. Came to Cass County in 1842 with his parents, who were among the early settlers of the county. Joseph Allison, subject's father, supposed to have been born in Pennsylvania, was a farmer by occupation, and died in February, 1861, aged 69 years. His wife, Elizabeth Spawn, also a native of Pennsylvania, was born about 1790, and died seventeen days after the death of her husband. She was the mother of nine children, of whom subject was the seventh child. At 22 years of age he purchased the homestead farm. He was married in this county Dec. 26, 1848 to Miss Martha E. Crews, who was born in Barren Co. Ky., Dec. 3, 1831. She died March 17, 1851, leaving one child, viz.: John Wesley H., born March 3, 1851. Mrs Allison was a daughter of Jesse and Susan Crews of this county. Mr. Allison was married again Feb. 22, 1852 to Miss Cecilia A. Logue, born in Warren Co. Tenn., April 30, 1829 to Oliver and Rebecca (Cole) Logue natives of Tennessee, deceased, she still living. From this marriage have been born, viz.: James Edwin, born June 1, 1854, died Dec. 30, 1854. The oldest child, John is in Iowa; the others are living at home. Mr. and Mrs Allison are connected with the M.E. church; he is a Republican, has been member of the I.O.O.F. of Virginia, and has held several of the minor township offices."

Data From Mrs Rebecca Scudder, 114 W. Eighth Ave.
Tempe, Arizona:

The bible of my grandfather, John Ingels (son of James Ingels and Catherine Boone (Dehart) Ingels) descended to his son Abraham Ingels. The bible is now owned by Abraham's son George. I have seen the bible and copied the following:

James Ingels was born March 12, 1749. He died Jan. 13, 1815 age 65 yrs, 10 months and 1 day.

Catherine Boone Dehart Ingels was born _____ 1752. She died Nov. 7, 1804 age 52 yrs 8 mons. 6 days.

The above John Ingels was my grandfather. His father, the above James emigrated to Kentucky from Pennsylvania in the early 1780's, settling near Bryan's Station, at Fort Grant.

In September 1930 I visited a number of my Ingels relatives in Ky. and copied data directly from bibles wherever possible. Some used Ingles spelling. One relative gave the date of Catherine Boone Dehart Ingels' birth as March 11, 1752 and death as Nov. 17, 1804, but they all agreed that Catherine died at age of 52 years 8 months and 6 days. The tombstones of James and Catharine Ingels were destroyed or used in the foundation of a barn built by a successor who owned the property which contained the oldest of their family burying grounds. There are several Ingels buried in the burying ground across from this old home of James and Catherine's which is on the property on which their son, also named James, lived.

Data From Pearl Ghomrley Ingle, Bondurant, Ia.

The earliest that is written up on Ingles or Ingels is about Thomas---- with sons William and others who came to the region of Chambersburg Pa. about 1730. The son was a surveyor and after visiting southeastern Virginia they moved to there, and in Famous Southern Families some of them are traced. Thomas himself seems to have been an improter, with his own ships in England. He then made headquarters in Ireland awhile, than some war making shipping hazardous, he decided to come to America. There is considerable to be found about them. The son William married Mary Draper, and the Indians burned their home and took Mary and her son Tommy. She escaped after a thrilling time, but it was 15 years before they rescued Tommy who by that time was a veritable young savage. He was placed in some Judge's home, for a season, married, had a home, visited the Indians, and later the Indians killed his wife. There is extensive information in Transallegeny Pioneers by Hale on this line.

In olden days there was a Sir Thomas Inglis who lived and owned baronial estates on the border of England and Scotland. He was annoyed by raids and border forays, and to escape them, exchanged his border estate called "Braxholm" with Sir William Scott, ancestor of Sir Walter Scott, for his Barony of "Murdiestone" in Lanarkshire.

Abstract of letter from W. H. Ingels, Paris, Ky, March 14, 1901:

"I called on one of our old relatives Mrs. Edy Boone, daughter of James Ingels, son of James Ingels, Sr. Miss Boone is a widow, 78 years and 5 months old. Aunt Edy Ingels married Wilson Hunt. Removed to Mos. had 2 children, George Hunt, and one daughter Polly, who married a man named Moss, had one child, a daughter, who married a man named Tucker. I think some of the connections live near to or at Fulton, Missouri now. Aunt Elinor, Nellie Ingels married -----Victor, had 2-3 children all dead that I can learn about except one lady a grandchild--a widow. Her name is Mathews, living in Carlisle, Ky. Any communication addressed to my brother Boone Ingels, Carlisle will reach her.

"My father James W. and your grandfather in 1850 or thereabout made a trip to Philadelphia to inquire into some property left by an Ingels whose given name I do not know, who was an old bachelor and died such who was for a long time a ship chandler. They found that he had been dead for sometime, that he had leased considerable property to parties for 99 years, the lease had run out and all rights to claim were barred for lapse of time over 20 years. 99 years lease 20 year lapse equal 119 years. He was over 21 years old when leased equal 139 years. At the shortest count that could be had -- 1850 minus 139 years equal 1711 when it could have been leased. I have heard my father James W. Ingels speak often of this trip with old Uncle John who was a strict religionist and practiced it, too.

Miss Edy Boone, (This Miss is a southern speaking of even a married woman) (Mrs. Edy Ingels Boone) is the oldest relative I can find alive says that she has often heard her father and old man James, Sr. talk of their descent. They came to America from Edinburg, Scotland. I visited a few days ago the home or starting place of the Ingels in Ky. The place is in a good state of preservation. My brother Boone is an Elder in the Christian Church. Brother Ben, a deacon. My brother George who died 1st Oct. was an Elder and I am an Elder, an unworthy one, however, in the same church. I will send you a genealogy of my children soon. I am somewhat proud of their descent. Edy Boone's husband was a descendent of Daniel Boone.

Nellie married a man named Victor, a high gentleman. Edy married Wilson Hunt and settled in Ky. where he made hats, raised a large family and amassed considerable money. Boone Ingels married Elizabeth Reed in 1808. From this marriage was James W., John A.H.B., Thomas E., Wm. T., Edward, George W., Myran, and Mary. James W. Ingels succeeded to the Hatter's business in Paris, married Amanda Crose, Nov. 5, 1835. To them was born Ben C., W. H. Boone, George A., Ellie, Alice, Belle Clara, and George Ann. George Ann Alice and Clara died in infancy. Ellie intermarried with W. B. Erringer, died leaving two children. George A. died Oct. 1900 leaving 4 children. B. C. is living with wife and 5 children. W. H., wife dead 4 years, has 2 children. Boone, wife and 3 children, living. Belle married W. J. Ransom, living, 4 children. James W. Ingels, first wife died.

Information From Dr. Nettie Pritchett
(Descendent of James Ingles III, son of James and Catherine Boone Ingles). Dr. Pritchett is now deceased.

Dear Cousin Virginia,

The data of genealogy of the Ingels (Ingles) family has not been completed or put in book form by me and I have not done much with it since about the time that I wrote your father.

Tradition says: a family named Ingels came from Edinburg, Scotland and settled in Philadelphia, Penn. about 1690 or 1700. Of how many members this family consisted I do not have a record, but there are records of two brothers, John and James; John, a ships chandler died very wealthy in Pennsylvania. Another son James Ingels--our common ancestor--was born 6-12-1749 and died 1-13-1815, married to Catherine Boone DeHart in 1777. To this union were born the following children: Joseph, James II, Elizabeth, Edy (Edith), Boone, Eleanor, Thomas and John. In 1785 James Ingels and family came into Kentucky from Virginia with Daniel Boone and purchased what was known as Grant's Station in Bourbon County. The original stone house remained standing until 1827 when the present owner of the Ingels' estate, Mrs. Bird Beatty, had it torn down and most of the stone pulverised and scattered over the farm. Out of some of the stones of this old house a monument was erected by Children of American Revolution. On a bronze tablet is the following inscription: "Site of Grant's Station. Built by Capt. John Grant 1779. Attacked and partially destroyed 1780. Rebuilt 1784. Marked by Martins Fort Society C.A.R. Dedicated July 4, 1928 by Children of the American Revolution. The Ingels' homestead passed to James Ingels II upon death of James I (husband of Catherine Boone). James II, my ancestor, married Elizabeth Lucker. To them were born 12 children: Mary, Sarah, William (my great grandfather) Noah, Nathaniel, Lucinda, Catherine, Clarissa, Ann, Elizabeth, Emily and Edy. Later James II married Mrs Mary Smith. Two boys--James Henry (III) and Joseph Thomas were born and both died single. James Henry was the last of the Ingels name to be owner of the Ingels homestead. James Ingels II (my ancestor) built a large brick house across the Pike from the Old Stone House. This is in good preservation. The old family burying ground is near the house but many of the markers are missing. James and Catherine Boone Ingels were buried near the stone house, but their markers have been destroyed as that part of the farm passed into other hands many years ago. I could not locate their graves in Oct. 1928.

Catherine Boone was a widow of William DeHart when she married James Ingels. She was a daughter of Joseph Boone (who was a brother of Daniel's father Squire Boone) and his wife Elizabeth_____. Catherine's brother, Jacob Boone married Mary DeHart, supposedly a sister of William DeHart, Catherine's first husband. One of James Ingels' and Catherine Boone's children were Joseph, and he married a Mary Bryan who was a niece of Daniel Boone's. (She was a daughter of William Bryan and Mary Boone, sister of Daniel's) Joseph and Mary Ingels settled near Bryan's Station, Ky. Boone Ingels, son of James and Catherine Ingels tells that there was a romance connected with them. They were sweethearts but some difficulty arose and Catherine married William DeHart. They had two children. William died in 1776 or 1777 and James Ingels met her again and they were married a short time after William died, and they decided to come back into Kentucky with Daniel Boone, settling in Bourbon County in 1782.

I have a blue print made by F. J. Cheek from records in the family Bible and as dictated by his mother, Mrs. F. J. Cheek at Danville, Kentucky.

Additions made from "Old Quaker Records", Archives of Berks county, Pennsylvania, and from data collected by Mrs. D. H. Peak, 336 Linden Walk, Lexington, Kentucky. Mrs. Peak gave me a copy of her research, some of which she proved by elimination that Catherine Boone was daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Boone and blue print shows she was B. 1751, D. 1804 M. Wm. DeHart 1773, and mother of two DeHart children (Sarah and William). Wm. DeHart D. 1777 and she married James Ingles the same year, 1777, and came to Kentucky in 1785 (with Daniel Boone) and settled first at Bryant Station but later bought a stone house and land that was known as Grant's Station which was standing till 1926 when it was torn down.

The ten children of Joseph and Elizabeth Boone are given on blue prints as follows: Jacob, Joseph, Ann, Catherine, Thomas, Ovid, Abner, Job, Sarah and Hannah.

My father and mother were born in Bourbon, Kentucky, and mother lived with James II, her grandfather and attended school. She knew all the family of James II and Elizabeth Ducker and the two boys of Mary E. Smith Ingels. One died in early manhood. James III was last of Ingels to own homestead, near Hutchinson Station.

Jacob Boone, oldest son of Joseph and Elizabeth, (our ancestor) married Mary DeHart. Supposedly a sister of Wm. DeHart, Catherine's first husband.

In answer to your question: You say the Kentucky historical society says that Boone Ingels was born in 1784. My information says April 15, 1785. Also you ask how I know that Bartlett Haley Ingels was the son of Thomas Ingels and Judith Haley. My authority is from his brother, John T. Ingels, who often visited our home, and he and mother talked kinship a great deal.

The Cloyd Genealogy states that James Ingels (husband of Catherine Boone) was a linen weaver by trade.

NOTES ON THE INGELS FAMILY OF BOURBON COUNTY, KENTUCKY
(Including notes on the Bevan, Richardson lines of the family)

By Dr. A. D. Cloyd
5104 Cuming Street
Omaha, Nebraska

Records indicate that the Ingels family of Bourbon county, Kentucky, is descended from James Ingels of Chester county, Pennsylvania, who married Ruth Harmer, in Christs Church, Philadelphia, 8-13-1737. (Mita Scudder Baugh, 4220 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, Pa., has done a great deal of research on this line and has extensive records.)

Ruth Harmer was the daughter of Wm. Harmer and Eleanor Richardson, daughter of Joseph Richardson and Elizabeth Bevan.

Joseph Richardson was the son of Samuel Richardson, and was born, date not known, but he died in 1752, in January. He married Elizabeth Bevan, at the Marion meeting 4-30-1696. She was born 1678, and died 1739. Samuel Richardson was a Provincial Councilor. Elizabeth Bevan, was the daughter of John Bevan (born 1646, died 1725) and Barbara Aubrey of Pencoid.

John Bevan, (or John ap evan), was the eldest of four sons of Jovan ap John ap Evan of Treverigg, Parish of Llanlusan, Glamorganshire, and Jane one of the daughters of Richard ap evan of Collen, same Parish. He was born about the year 1646. He being the eldest, the estate was left to him, but he portioned it out to all his brothers who were unprovided for.

The family of Treverigg was one of the most ancient in Glamorganshire, Wales, and possessed considerable wealth for that day. The Bevans descended in direct male line from the ancient Princes and Lords of Glamorgan, whose lineage is traceable for many generations back to the old Cymric Kings of the Island of Britain. It is understood that the male line in Glamorganshire has failed, and that the earlier male line from Iestyn ap Gwrgan having died out, it would appear that the members of the American branch are not only the sole representatives of the Treverigg family, but are also representatives as male heirs according to their respective order, of the ancient Princes of Glamorgan.

John Bevan came to Pennsylvania from his paternal estate of Treverigg in Glamorganshire, Wales, in 1683. To quote from one of his papers: "Some time before the year 1683 we had heard our esteemed friend, William Penn, had a patent from King Charles II for that Province in America called Pencillvania, and my wife had a great intention to go thither, and thought it might be a good place to train up children amongst sober people."

John Bevan, as trustee for a company of Cymric Quaker adventurers, purchased 2,000 acres of land in the Province of Pennsylvania. The lands of the original patent extended into Haverford township where he settled the little company of colonists whom he brought from his Welsh home. The Haverford lands were surveyed to those persons who had contributed toward the purchase money for the 2,000 acres patented and the Marion lands were retained by John Bevan for his own use.

Continuation of Data From Dr. Cloyd On Ingles and Bevan
And Richardson Lines.

John Bevan became a member of the Provincial Assembly, of Pennsylvania, and was a very prominent colonist. His parents, Jevan ap John ap Evan of Treverigg, and the parents of his wife Jane, who were Richard ap Evan, of Collona, Glamorganshire are the most remote ancestors of the Ingels family treated in these notes.

These facts have been gleaned from "Welsh Settlement of Pennsylvania" by Browning and from "Merion in The Welsh Tract" by Glenn. These books carry the Bevan line back to about 1000 A.D. and tie it up with the English royal family. Nita Baugh and her mother, Rebecca Scudder have done extensive work on this royal line which goes back to William the Conqueror. They have also done extensive work on the early Ingles of Pennsylvania.

Letter from Dr. Nettie Pritchett

You would be interested in how I happened to undertake this work. My mother was the oldest daughter of the oldest son (William Ingels) of James II and Elizabeth Ducker and lived with them four years to attend school. There she learned to know, not only their 14 children but the brothers and sisters of James II and used to talk of them, and I became interested but never attempted tabulating data, till about or before 1900 when Rev. Marion Ingels, grandson of John and Roscy Gaar Ingels became pastor of a Christian Church in Illiopolis, a town just four miles from Miantic, our home. Then he found we were his relatives, an intimacy sprang up between us.

He was very much interested in genealogy and began his search to obtain data. Mother assisted when she could--but before getting further details--he died in November 9, 1910. In the meantime, father and mother both had passed away together with many of the older relatives. Our home in Miantic and Decatur, Illinois was the meeting place of all the kin -- and as father, Thos. A. and his oldest brother, James Waller Pritchett had married two Ingels sisters, Mary and Sarah and other members of the Pritchett and Ingels joined father and mother in Illinois from Kentucky; the relations grew, and as they, father and mother, were first to migrate from Kentucky to Illinois in 1856 the rest naturally followed them to help settle in the new state. Any one from other states made our home the stopping place.

Each year for nearly 50 years family reunion known as Pritchett-Ingels had been held either in Miantic or Decatur -- and relatives from many states attended. About 1910 they asked me if I would attempt to trace the ancestors of both families -- Pritchett and Ingels -- and having Marion Ingels' data, and what mother and father had told me, I accepted it. Being a teacher till 1912, then changing profession from teacher to Dr. of Vagrapathy kept me very busy. After my graduation and location for practice in Bloomington, I went after genealogy in earnest. From 1914 to about 1930 all my spare time was spent writing letters for information like the one your father received. Many were thrown in waste-paper baskets, others gave addresses and suggestions of persons to whom to write, which continued until 1929-30 when my sister's health failed and I took her to Florida. Then came depression sweeping away all my savings -- with sister unable to carry her part -- and had to assume all, which meant genealogy was pushed aside. Sister passed on Sept. 4, 1938, leaving me the only member of Thos. and Mary Pritchett's immediate family except nephews and nieces.

Have written hundreds and hundreds of letters -- made visits into Kentucky -- inquired of all kin, and have compiled quite a rather scattering completed data beginning with the marriage of James and Catherine Boone DeHart in 1777 down to present time. Have never done research work like Mrs. Scudder who has visited me two or three times.

You can now see sources of my information. In 1925 I attended the Ingels' reunion at Rushville and obtained all I could of Thos. Ingels' descendence, getting as many addresses as possible and writing later. Richmond Ingels and another attended one reunion in Decatur.

There is no doubt about proof that Thos. Ingels and Judith Haley are parents of Bartlett Haley I. or Thos. Ingels' parentage.

AMERICAN ORDER OF PIONEERS, INC.
Boone Family Association
Washington City, U.S.A.

May 29, 1940

Mrs. Virginia Ingles Maes
139 W. 48th St., Los Angeles, California

Dear Mrs. Maes:

I have had to wait until I could devote some time to answering your letter, for I really have a great deal to tell you, and I knew it would take several hours to get the material together and write you in full. This being my birthday, I feel that I can do as I wish with my time, so housecleaning and everything else can wait!

I shall skip at once to the first paragraph, second page of your letter and tell you that you are correct in thinking that your ancestress Catherine was a daughter of Joseph Boone and wife Elizabeth, who were also the parents of Jacob Boone who married Mary DeHart; and that this Joseph Boone was a son of Joseph Boone, Sr. brother of Squire Boone who was the father of Daniel the pioneer. Joseph Boone, Sr. was of course a son of George Boone, III.

The parentage of Joseph Boone, Jr. who married Elizabeth was for a long time undetermined, although it was fairly certain that he was father of Jacob Boone of Maysville, Ky. and his sister Catherine Boone (DeHart) Ingles. Then a search was instituted under my direction by two members of our Boone Family Association who wished to learn the ancestry of Jacob Boone of Kentucky and his brother Ovid Boone. The search was made by Mrs. Steinmetz of Reading, Pa. who is a most skillfull, conscientious and intelligent searcher, and who knows more about the Pennsylvania Boones than anyone I know. Her charges were most reasonable, and I, of course, charged nothing for my part, which was considerable in correspondence, typing, etc., but I have the great satisfaction of having the privilege of passing on the information to any descendants of the family who are interested. The two men who paid for the search have granted that privilege. So it is a pleasure to pass it on to you.

The solution to the whole problem was found in the one deed which I am sending you as "Record A", because this one document contains the names of three generations: Joseph, Sr. and Catherine; Joseph, Jr. and Elizabeth; and the ten children of Joseph, Jr., including Jacob and Catherine.

Now you may ask, how do we know that this Joseph Boone, Jr. was the father of Jacob of Maysville, etc.? Because it is known that Jacob of Maysville, Ky. had brothers Ovid and Thomas and a sister Catherine; also a statement of his daughter which is given on page 481 of my book says that her father Jacob was a son of Joseph, and gives her father's birth date which fits in perfectly with that family.

As to Catherine (Boone) DeHart - Ingles being Joseph's daughter, I have only tradition from several branches of the family, that she was a sister of Jacob of Maysville. Everything known about her fits in exactly with the data we have. I have never seen a full list of her children until you sent it, and I am very glad to have that list for our Boone records.

Before going further let me say that I do not believe that the Joseph Boone of the Chester County Militia was Catherine's father who certainly died in or before 1776. (See Record B.) But Catherine's brother Joseph (3rd) who was born about 1753-58 could well have been a soldier in 1781-83. Why not try James Ingels for Revolutionary service.

Your letter says "I am hoping that you will be able to supply me with definite information that Catherine Boone was James Ingel's wife." I am giving you her marriage record, from Pennsylvania, but I see this names her only as the widow of William DeHart. If anyone in the world can find documentary evidence that this same Catherine was the daughter of Joseph Boone, Jr. it would be Mrs. Steinmetz of Reading, Pa. Perhaps she could find record of Catherine's first marriage to William DeHart. Certainly the Orphans' Court records show her widowship and the fact that she married James Ingels. That she was actually the same Catherine who was one of the ten children of Joseph, Jr. and Elizabeth, is, I regret to admit, one of those things which everyone seems sure of and no one has taken the trouble to substantiate.

I have some letters from various descendants of Catherine Ingels and will send you excerpts from them. If I were to send copies in full it would only be confusing to you, for they have matters pretty well jumbled up, some saying that Catherine was a daughter of Thomas Boone. I find no Thomas who could have been her father.

Jacob Boone and his brothers Thomas and Ovid went to Kentucky about 1783, and it does not seem to me probable that their sister Catherine would have gone there earlier. That tradition that James Ingels, second son was born at Bayen's Station or at Grant's Station may be purely a tradition. I doubt if there was a Grant's Station as early as 1779. Catherine must have been kept pretty busy, married in August, 1777 and with a second child born in November, 1779. From 1779 to 1783 was the great migration time for the Boones. Catherine must have left her DeHart children with relatives in Pennsylvania, for they were there and chose guardians from 1780 to 1789.

If your ancestor Thomas was born in Pennsylvania in 1789, his parents very clearly went back there for a visit, if not to stay. I note at the beginning of your letter you state that your James Ingels emigrated to Kentucky in 1782, which fits in with what I wrote above, although I had not noticed your statement then. 1782 is probably right, and the "born in the fort" tradition (a popular one among the Boones) is wrong, for James Ingels.

May I use your list of James Ingel's children for our next Boone Bulletin? Would you like to join our Association? And wouldn't you like to buy one of my books "The Boone Family"? It doesn't settle the ancestry of your Catherine and her brothers and sisters, but what it does give still holds, and, as I say, the proof has been found since. I have a few imperfect books (gold lettering on back is dull or obscured) which I am selling for $12.00 as long as they last. They're otherwise perfect.

Hope all this will be of help to you. Write again.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed)

Her certified copy of original document is now in the files of Hazel A. Spraker (Mrs. J. R.) Registrar and Historian of the Boone Family Association, 64 Dorchester Road, Buffalo, N. Y.

This is presented through the courtesy of Mr. Franklin M. Boone of South Bend, Indiana and Mr. J. B. Mitchin of Greensburg, Indiana, who engaged Mrs. Steinmetz' service in finding of the deed.

RECORD B.

Letters of Administration administered to ELIZABETH, widow of JOSEPH BOONE, late of Twp. of Exeter, County of Berks, Province of Pennsylvania, Yeoman, with Hugh Boone and Isaac Boone as bondsmen, May 10, 1776.

(Showing that Joseph Boone Jr. died before that date.)

Note: The above two records show that Joseph Boone Jr. who died about 1776 was a son of Joseph Boone Sr. and wife Catherine. Other deeds (Deed Book 22, page 459) show that Joseph Sr. was son of George and Mary Boone, H.A.S.

The following items were taken directly from the records by
Mrs. Mary Owen Steinmetz, genealogist, 545 Centre St., Reading, Pa.:

RECORD C

Orphans' Court, Berks County, Pa., Feb. 28, 1763:

William DeHart, son of Gilbert DeHart, above 14, selects William Boone for guardian. (William was therefore born about 1748, assuming he was 15 when he chose a guardian ... H.A.S.)

Tax List, Berks County. William DeHart first appears on tax-list as a married man in 1768. (This gives an idea of Catherine Boone's age.
If her first husband, William DeHart was only twenty when they married, Catherine was probably a few years younger, born probably 1751 or 1752 ... H.A.S.)

(The following records from Orphans' Court of Berks County, gathered by Mrs. Steinmetz, concern Catherine Boone's children by her first husband, Wm. DeHart, who appears to have died about 1774 or '75)

RECORD D

Feb. 11, 1780: James Engels and Catherine (late Catherine DeHart, widow of William) left three children, William, Ann and Sarah, all under 14 years of age.

(Note: Could the fact that Catherine went to Kentucky in 1780 or earlier account for the phrase "left three children"?)

Feb. 10, 1784: Ann DeHart, daughter of William, above 14, chooses Judah Boone for guardian.

April 18, 1787: Sarah DeHart, daughter of William, above 14, chooses
John Kerling, Jr. and Jacob Boone as guardians.

May 9, 1787: James Engels intermarried with Catherine, widow of William deHart; Thomas Kerlin, married to and guardian of Anna DeHart;
John Kerlin, guardian of Sarah DeHart and William, a minor.

Orphans' Court, June 12, 1789: William DeHart, only son of William, deceased, above 14, selects Isaac Boone, guardian.

RECORD E

Records of St. Gabriel's Church, Douglassville, Pa.:

James Ingels and Catherine DeHart married August 23, 1777.

Note by Mrs. Steinmetz: "Catherine DeHart, wife of William, could have been born as late as 1751, maybe 1752. The children were probably born thus (supposing them to be 15 years of age when selecting guardians):
Anna born 1769: Sarah born 1772: William born 1774.

(Signed) Mary Owen Steinmetz."

Note by Hazel A. Spraker: Catherine, second daughter of Joseph Boone Jr. (Joseph, George) was over 21 in 1779 (Orphans' Court, Berks county, Pennsylvania). Her brother Jacob, eldest son, was born in 1754. It is possible that Anna and Catherine, two eldest daughters of Joseph, Jr. may have been born before their brother Jacob.

J. C. Cooper of Lexington, Ky, stated that Catherine Boone, daughter of Joseph and sister of Jacob of Maysville, Lt. mer (1st) a DeHart, and (2nd) James Ingels. Mr. Cooper no longer living. ... H.A.S.

Letter from W. H. Ingels to Marion Ingels from Paris, Ky, 2nd - 23-1901

"My Respected Kinsman. Dear Sir: A few days since I was handed a paper by Warren Ingels a kinsman here, asking me to fill out and return to you. I am at a loss somewhat to know just exactly how you desire blanks filled out. I will herein give you the history of the Ingels family told me by my father James W. Ingels.

"At the time that my ancestor came to the dark and bloody ground of old Ky. not much attention was given to family record. They were more taken up in trying to preserve their scalps from becoming a trophy to the wild Indian, then roaming in undisturbed possession over our beautiful fertile lands. Pelts, skins and jerked buffalo meat was of much interest to them. They had to make their own salt at the Old Blue Lick Springs. Some boiled the water down while others stood picket to keep off the savage red men. Here was fought the bloody battle with Simon Girty, the renegade and Daniel Boone and his sturdy pioneers in which so many of our truest most trusted and early settlers fell victim to treachery and savage ingenuity. My ancestor paternal and maternal came to Ky. in 1785 with Daniel Boone who brought with him families in numbers. My ancestor James Ingels who had previously intermarried with Miss Boone, a niece of Daniel Boone. My great grandfather left the crowd, Daniel Boone going to Boonsborough on the Kentucky River, James Ingels settling between Paris and Lexington erecting a stone house which today stands in remarkable preservation. A stockade was erected around this house from which Indians shot. The farm upon which James Ingels settled was left to his son, James who left same to his son, James. It was in the Ingels family, belonging to the three James from 1785 to 1893 when the last James owning died a bachelor when it went to another name than Ingels. To James Ingels and to his wife (Miss Boone) were born James, Thomas, John, Boone, Bryan, Nellie, and Edy. James remained on the farm. Thomas went, I think, to Illinois. John to Indiana, Bryan (Bryant) settled on the Licking River, this state.

Of the marriage of James Ingels, Sr. I have heard my father tell that the elder James was a suitor for the hand of Catherine Boone. She acted like a woman and as my progenitor thought, married the wrong man, a Mr. DeHart, leaving one son.

Afterwards our progenitor in traveling through the country was overtaken by night and had to stop at an acquaintance's house and there met Catherine Boone DeHart, the widow. Differences were made up and she soon became Mrs. James Ingels. Came to Ky. in 1785 with the Boone family. Settled in this county where some of the name has been since. If I can be of service to you further, command me.

I am yours in the hope,

(Signed) W. H. Ingels.

NOTES ON THE INGELS FAMILY

The following printed slip was sent me in 1927 by Mrs. Nettie Pritchett, Bloomington, Illinois:

READ CAREFULLY

I am trying to get up a genealogy of the Ingels' Family, and need all the help you can give me.

Tradition says: An Ingels family moved from Edinburg, Scotland, to Philadelphia, Pa., about 1690 or 1700 A. D. One of the sons, an old bachelor, was a ship chandler and died in Philadelphia very rich. His brothers and sisters married and moved from Philadelphia to different parts of the country -- to Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, etc. A descendent in Pennsylvania, a James Ingels, married a Mrs. Catharine Dehart (formerly a Miss Boone, cousin or niece to Daniel Boone) and moved to Bourbon county, Kentucky, in 1785. My grandfather, John Ingels, of Indiana, was the youngest son of this James Ingels who settled in Kentucky.

There are many other persons and families whose genealogy can be traced back to the Scotch family of Ingels that settled in Philadelphia. Will you please to help me get the names and addresses of all such persons that I may send them blanks to fill out? Include the names and addresses of the descendants of the daughters, as well as the sons of Ingels. Send me copies of old family records, and all other possible information.

In filling out the enclosed blank sheet, please be particular (on first page) to fill in all dates of births, of marriages, of deaths, of what church a member, and of what "present address." In case the person is dead, write under "present address" the place where he died. On "Second Page" run your line of descent back as far as possible. Thus I run my line back: "Husband, Marion Ingels, son of Thomas Ingels, son of John Ingels, son of James Ingels, who moved from Pennsylvania to Kentucky in 1785. I do not know his father's name." Thus you can fill up page two.

Please fill out blanks on both pages promptly and mail to me, with all additional names and addresses and information. Thanking you in advance, I am

Yours truly,
M. INGELS.

Leanna, Allen County, Kansas. P.O. Discont'd 1911. Mail: Chanute, Kans.

Joseph Allison and wife Elizabeth Spann (variously spelled Spohn, Spann, Spahn)

The above Joseph Allison and Elizabeth Spann are the parents of Margaret Allison, wife of Bartlett Haley Ingles the 1st. The following statements were taken from their tombstones:

Elizabeth
Wife of Joseph Allison
born
April 12, 1790
died
Feb. 18, 1859

Joseph Allison
born
Nov. 17, 1790
died
Feb. 11, 1859

According to a statement taken by Mrs Lewis Peters from her grandfather, Allison Ingles (youngest son of Bartlett Haley Ingles 1st and Margaret Allison) on November 7, 1940, he believed the following to be a complete list of his aunts and uncles on the Allison side of the family, and that he believed this to be the correct order of their ages:

Joseph, John, Jane, (Margaret), Martha, Elizabeth, Catherine.

The graves of Joseph and Elizabeth (Spann) Allison lie in the village cemetery on a high bluff overlooking the village of Chandlerville, in Cass County, Illinois.

Ju ith Haley (wife of Thomas Ingles, and Mother of Bartlett Haley Ingles)

I have thus far been unable to learn the names of Judith Haley's parents although I have uncovered the following information on her:

She was born Dec. 29, 1792 (taken from her tombstone in the Hersmann, Ill. cemetery) possibly in Orange or Louisa or Henrico counties Virginia, as Haley families early traveled to Kentucky from there. The first that is definitely known of her is her marriage on March 8, 1810 in Fayette Co. Kentucky to Thomas Ingles. Her marriage bondsman was Randolph Haley. Possibilities for her father might be either this marriage bondsman, Randolph Haley or two members of her church parish (Baptist) in Kentucky, namely, Benjamin Haley and William Haley. Her father might also have been Randall Haley who lived in Fayette Co. Ky and was a Revolutionary War veteran. It is quite possible that Randall and Randolph Haley are the same man, for record clerks in those days often wrote a name down wrongly. Mrs Joseph E. Beard, 435 Fayette Park, Lexington, Kentucky has done a good bit of research on the Haley family and is inclined to believe, from her research so far, that Randall Haley was the father of Judith; thus far however she has not found definite proof. Mr. J.E. McAnallys 717 S. 4th St., Burlington, Iowa, who is a grandson of Coleman Haley says that his older sister said that their mother used to talk a great deal about the Ingles relatives. However there is no Judith listed in the list of Coleman's brothers and sisters in his bible, so the relationship must not have been a brother and sister one here.

Our Judith Haley was definitely known to have had a brother Bartlett Haley after whom she named her son Bartlett Haley Ingles.

HALEY Family-----Further Data

From Mrs Alma Haley Hickman, Rushville, Ill. R. 5:

My grandfather was Benjamin Haley. I was only 10 years old when he died in January 1879 at the age of 83 years. I don't remember of his ever saying what his father's first name was. My own father's name was John Martin Haley. He was the youngest of 10 children. Randall and Bartlett Haley were brothers of grandfather's and one sister married an Ingles (Judith). She was the mother of Bartlett Haley Ingles. If they lived any where else than Fayette County Kentucky after moving from Virginia, other than Illinois, I don't know of it. They always spoke of Louisville, Kentucky. They moved to Illinois in 1832 in time for Grandfather to fight in the Black-Hawk War. My father faught in the Civil War. I know my grandfather's name was Benjamin and he had a son Benjamin & I a brother Benjamin so it must have been a family name. There were only three families in the county when our people moved here. My grandfather also had a brother Coleman Haley. They called him Cole for short. My grandmother's name was Josina Haley.

Letter from Fannie Ingels Means, wife of W. F. Means, Hiawatha, Kansas, to Marion Ingels of Center, Indiana, and given to Dr. Nettie Pritchett for genealogical purposes, to copy:

Hiawatha, Kansas
Feb. 19, 1901

Dear Cousin Marion:

Was glad to receive the slips and have filled them out the best I can. We have a deed from Great Grandfather Ingels to Grandfather Ingels to land in Bourbon county, Kentucky, on which great grandfather lived. It was made in 1811 and Isaac Boone was one of the witnesses. There are lots of Ingels around Paris and Lexington, Kentucky. Catharine Boone, our great grandmother, was Daniel Boone's cousin."

Our great-grandfather, James Ingels owned 4 acres in the heart of Philadelphia and 90 feet on Water Street, and a farm of 240 acres on the Hudson River. Grandmother Ingels (Rosey Gaar Ingels) told us this and said grandfather was the youngest of the children, and when great grandfather died he told his children that it was about time for the lease to run out. They had leased it for 99 years. So when grandfather grew up he rode horseback to Philadelphia to see about the land, but they had begun to build on it. It seems 20 years of peaceful possession gave them a right to build on it.

(Signed) Fannie I. Means

R.M.S. note: This is my cousin of Hiawatha, Kansas. She is one of four daughters of Uncle John Ingels formerly of Bentonville, Indiana, who sold out and bought at Hiawatha. But Uncle took sick and died at Bentonville, Indiana -- the old Ingels homestead about 15 miles from Richmond.

-----**-----

INFORMATION on the old home place in Schuyler Co. Ill.: The farm my Dad, Thomas Jefferson Ingles, was born on was about 10 miles south of Rushville, Ill. He was born in a log cabin on this farm. His father Bart Ingles II came into town from the farm when he was about 45. Bart II's father's farm (Bart Ist) was also about 10 miles south of Rushville. Ill. These farms were in Woodstock Twp.
